k.Q: How to send a File as an Attachment to Gmail using Smtplib in C#.Net 3.5 I am currently using Smtplib class from the System.Net assembly to send mails. I found a great example on how to use it, but I am stuck at a step where I need to use System.IO.File to send a file as an attachment. I have read up on this and found that I need to use memory stream to build my attachment. I have followed this example, but when I try to attach a file using: String myFile = @"c:\file.txt"; I get a StreamWriter is not closed exception, it closes before it reaches this line. Is there any other way of sending a file as an attachment? Update: I have managed to solve the issue. Using d0c515b9f4
