West Ham United captain Mark Noble says the team now has a "purpose" following a 1-0 victory over West Bromwich Albion which sent them up to second place in the Premier League table. It wasn't quite the fairy-tale Premier League season West Ham were hoping for after having some of the greatest results in their history in 2017, but Noble sees now as a positive sign for the remainder of the season. "It's just a process," Noble told Sky Sports. "Obviously it was very important for the club to get up and to be at a point where you're playing the football you want to play. "It's a positive now, it's not a negative because we're still in the title race. For the lads it's nice to get off the mark and get something out of the game and be up there.
