Whereas such treatments have proven effective in some malignancies, effective treatments have yet to emerge for most malignancies. Molecularly targeted therapies directed at specific targets have the potential to modulate specific biological processes that are involved in the cause and/or treatment of cancer. In addition to providing opportunities to reduce morbidity and mortality associated with cancer, more effective targeted therapies can provide patients with more effective combinations of therapies.Heribert Lutz Heribert Lutz (18 January 1918 – 10 October 2008) was a German judge. Early life and career Heribert Lutz was born 18 January 1918 in Tilsit, East Prussia, Germany, to Elsa and Joseph Jakob Lutz, a salt mine worker. He graduated from the Gymnasium in Zerbst, then went on to study law at the universities of Jena and Leipzig. In 1940, he began working as an attorney in Leipzig. Following the invasion of the Soviet Union by Nazi Germany in 1941, Lutz fled to the Netherlands, where he worked as a dentist. He was arrested by the Germans in July 1944 and sent to the concentration camp Sachsenhausen. He was liberated by American troops in 1945 and then returned to East Prussia. After the German surrender, Lutz returned to the school and faculty he had taught in before the war. After graduation in 1949, he began his career as a judge, working in the cities of Leipzig, Zerbst, Magdeburg, and Schwerin. He also worked as a judge in Soviet-occupied Poland and the Soviet Union. From 1966 to 1971 he was the President of the Court of Appeals of East Germany. From 1971 to 1976, he was the President of the Court of Appeals in Dresden. gaudichaudiana* (Burm. f.) was originally described from India, and only a single isolate (GD227) is assigned to the scientific name of T. gaudichaudiana (sensu [@R36]). However, its sister species, T. sumatrana, is known worldwide, as well as T. glauca ([@R40]). [@R36] recognized T. gaudichaudiana as a synonym of T. glauca and doubted the presence of T. sumatrana in the Far East of Asia. However, Lindström & [@R19] recognised the latter and T. gaudichaudiana (sensu [@R36]) to be synonyms of T. sumatrana. Tuberia orientalis was recognised as a synonym of T. glauca by many authors: e.g., [@R16], [@R39] and [@R11]. Tuberella has a very close relationship with Leptosphaeria ([@R30], [@R31], [@R39], [@R26]), and it is more or less identical to T. glauca based on the carbon assimilation abilities of the anamorphs ([@R36], [@R15]). These observations confirm the consideration of T. gaudichaudiana (sensu [@R36]) as a synonym of T. sumatrana. The present study reports the discovery of Stromatosa pheboides, a new species closely related to T. glauca, based on morphological observations, molecular phylogeny and macromorphological as well as micromorphological comparisons (Fig. 1{ref-type="fig"}). The new species is described here for the first time and is conserved in culture, and offers a new stimulus for future investigations on Tuberella biology. We obtained the two fungal specimens (*ML*618 and *ML*727) from dead leaves on L. obtusifolia collected from China (Heilongjiang province) and Germany, respectively. Microscopic observations of the two specimens revealed that the ascomata of *ML*618

The latest creation from the developers of Blue Estate and Pandora's Tower. Get ready for a hauntingly beautiful 2.5D RPG set on a mysterious island. In a faraway land, the Kyuzo Empire has become corrupt and cruel, and a blight appears on the land. The people in the capital, Kyuzo, have turned into furious demons, tearing each other apart with their claws and fangs. You've been kidnapped and transported to Kyuzo by the corrupt evil Empress, who is making preparations for the bloody massacre of the royal family. Saving the people of the Empire is your mission, but with only your wits and weapons, you must first find a way back home. Navigate tricky puzzles and overcome fearsome monsters, and discover the truth about Kyuzo! Game Features: – Automatically generated map system, no loading screens to navigate. – 3D action combat system, with automatic auto-reloading. – Full 3D models, animations, and effects. – Unbreakable plot, with multiple endings based on actions taken. – In-game events will lead to different endings, and choices made within events will have their own weight. – "A Word From Our Devs" There's nothing like the feeling of exploring a big, unfamiliar world for the first time. By chance, your ship is carrying a mysterious boy who washes ashore on a different island each time. You use the new knowledge to help people and grow the land, but unknown forces pursue you. The player examines the various regions of the island, exploring more each time. The goal is to find the boy and bring him back to the base, but the enemies are plentiful. The player gains new items and skills as they progress through the game. The items are gathered through actual exploration of the islands, and are comprised of three elements: money, inventory space and items. The player will need to plan carefully so they can keep their characters' resources from running out. On a more personal level, the player will face the challenges of developing friendship or enmity with the inhabitants of the island. By playing through the game and paying attention to the residents, you can form relationships with them that change the way the story continues. – Settings can be saved even after the story has finished for one run through, allowing players to repeat the story with new items, characters and skills. –

Q: Minimal flat (orientable) surface There are some nice classes of closed surfaces having no harmonic 2-forms, the most well known being Hopf surfaces: Hopf surface $S^2(2,1,\beta)$ - $S^2 \#_\beta {\mathbb C}P^2$ Hopf surface $S^2(2,3,\beta)$ - $S^2 \#_\beta {\mathbb C}P^2\#_\beta {\mathbb C}P^2$ All this can be extended to a class of surfaces with no holomorphic 1-forms: Stein surfaces $S^2(4,\beta)$ - $S^2 \#_\beta (S^2\times S^2)$ Vinberg surfaces $S^2(2,3,6)$ - $S^2 \#_3 (S^2\# S^2\times S^2)$ Stein surfaces. They have the feature that no flat meromorphic 1-forms exist. (Actually the Stein surface is obtained as one-point blow-up of the Hopf surface.) In particular no holomorphic S^1-fibration is possible. Q1: Are there purely (holomorphic) minimal geometrical flat surfaces? Nonconvex minimal surfaces. Inverse Hopf surfaces. These constructions are taken from the paper: Möbius and Kleinian groups and a construction of minimal Surfaces with prescribed mean curvature, by Dominic Hofmann and Robert Osserman. Q2: Are there minimal geometric flat surfaces with non-empty boundary? I am wondering whether there are minimal flat surfaces containing at least one boundary component.
