Game Maker:SKOPJE, Macedonia — Macedonians holding a popular opposition leader under house arrest faced accusations of cronyism on Friday after it emerged that their private lawyer was accused of being a “traitor” and a “traitor of the family state” by a federal prosecutor.

The announcement that Ms. Klara Gueorguievska, a state prosecutor in Veles, Macedonia, had charged Mrs. Zorica Stamatova, a lawyer and spokeswoman for the opposition party Movement for Rights and Freedoms, also came just hours after Ms. Stamatova had publicly urged Macedonians to gather to protest her continued detention. It was a political adroit move. Ms. Gueorguievska had been assigned to work with Ms. Stamatova’s team and had been on her side in a custody battle that has become a show trial of sorts between the government and the opposition.Q:
