I know I'm calling data.Worker.FirstName, and I believe that should be working. However, when looking at the output it doesn't appear to be working right. Hopefully this is a noob question. function TheController() { var self = this; self.TheModel = { FirstName: ko.observable("") } } ko.applyBindings(new TheController()); UPDATE: I did notice something with my code. I'm new to Knockout, but my error was this: Message: 'FirstName' is undefined I ended up adding this:

I really enjoyed it, liked the approach. ----- craigjb Next up: creating a social media website with Node.js and Express. ----- ahmedaly Yeah, I'm interested in web development but it's not my thing for now. This tutorial is written for people like me. ----- Inquisitr I've read through the tutorial and there's a huge blank wall for me to figure out how to do something. Like how to load images from a url, or why this code is even doing anything. This tutorial is going to be quite hard to understand. ~~~ ahmedaly Yeah, I'm interested in web development but it's not my thing for now. This tutorial is written for people like me. ~~~ Inquisitr I understand where you're coming from. I recommend this tutorial until you're more familiar with Express. ----- Ethernite Why did you use images as frontend? They have a much larger file size and heavy resource to load. ~~~ ahmedaly They're used to aid in readability. Would be grateful if you tell me what's wrong with them. ~~~ Ethernite That's a fair point, thanks. I'm personally a fan of a static site generator and haproxy for serving the content.
