Elements is a comprehensive all-in-one package which is good for beginners, the photo enthusiast and advanced amateur. However, for those who need to migrate to the Adobe package, the transition can be a little confusing and intimidating. Business users should consider the Adobe Creative Cloud option. You get all the advantages of the Creative Suite, including Adobe Photoshop, Adobe Lightroom, Adobe InDesign, and other integrated tools. It's also a good tool for web designers because you can preview your work within the browser. Adobe Lightroom is a full-featured editing application. It allows you to keep track of the individual edits you've made to a single image. Unlike the Elements counterpart, it supports editing tools for exposure, color, white balance, sharpness, and any other adjustments you can think of. As I have already said, Adobe has not upgraded the Final Cut Pro version 10 for Mountain Lion. However, Apple has supplied a quick fix that works just fine. Final Cut Pro's Image Browser screen shows the location of your default libraries. Simply choose your primary library and then activate it by pressing the space bar. You will then see all of your video clips in the menu. So far, all of the discussion has been about Lightroom 5.0. However, since my last review, the CS6 version of Lightroom has been released too. Therefore, I would like to discuss the version for Lightroom 5 . Of course, there's Photoshop Touch in the App Store – the only store that can offer it. The program is free for those over the age of 13 who purchase content from the iTunes store. Not only will there be an iPad version of Photoshop Touch, but also, there will be an Android version.

So, after all of those back-and-forths, you can bet that when the 2015 Sundance Film Festival kicks off with a parade of Oscar-hopeful films, Sundance Now will play some real contender among the very best, thanks to the hard work of its entire staff. They will be greatly supported at the event by the other new streaming service from Park City, the KCET-owned movie streaming platform FilmStruck, which, like Sundance Now, was co-founded by the man behind the Sundance Institute, Robert Redford. They are not the only ones stepping out of their comfort zones and into the movie-viewing limelight. These new services together offer something for everyone. The incomparable Moonlight (A24), a film everyone in the media was talking about before opening weekend, will likely be the go-to film of the festival. But it's not the only wonderful film this festival has in store, and Sundance Now and FilmStruck, in particular, have been seen as major players in the hopes of providing movie-goers a better alternative to the exclusive subscription apps and services. Here's what to expect. Venue: Eccles, Grand Theatre (Jan. 18)
Directed by: Micah Alexander
Starring: Cecile Frot-Coutaz, David Oyelowo, Willem Dafoe

If this is the film's Oscar chances, I'll take a pass. Have you experienced FilmStruck yet? The excellent series of reviews I wrote here at The Download explain why it's so worth the six-month trial as an investment in yourself, your knowledge of film, and what type of film lover you are. FilmStruck is a streaming service that offers thousands of movies on its website and mobile apps. A version of its content also appears on televisions via subscriptions to cable or satellite providers.
